Tenzo helps restaurants to save money. We analyse a restaurant's data to deliver tactical insights for restaurant managers to action.

The brainchild of Christian Mouysset, co-founder of Hummus Bros and Adam Taylor, who led McKinsey's fast growth tech work on the US west coast, Tenzo helps restaurant managers identify their most productive member of staff, get more accurate forecasting or get a better understanding as to the most and least popular dishes. Each insight helps restaurants to run better, more effectively and, ultimately, more profitably.

Recognizing that restaurant managers are busy and don't have time to sit at a desk to go through endless reports, Tenzo delivers short digestible insights directly to their mobile.

By pulling data from multiple sources, Tenzo gives insights not available with traditional EPOS and staff scheduling solutions. By delivering advice in real-time and on mobile, customers use Tenzo to make daily decisions, unlike traditional reporting tools or Excel.

We count amongst our customers Wendy's, Upham Group and Keen.

Tenzo, the name given to the head chef at a Buddhist monastery, aims to make running a restaurant more zen.
